Little Red River Park – Water Level

Residents are advised to stay away from the riverbank during high water levels.

The recent heavy rains have contributed to high water levels at the Little Red River Park. According to Bob Gill, Parks and Open Spaces Manager for the City of Prince Albert, “Residents are advised to use caution when venturing out to Little Red”. Gill mentions that “With all of the recent water, the embankment at Little Red may be unstable in certain areas and is extremely dangerous.” City personnel continue to monitor the water level at Little Red and will notify residents if the situation worsens.
